HackberryrodgeunClub à € Originally founded in 1975 by Terry Shaughnessy and his wife Martha, Hackberry Rod and Gun has grown to be the most large and respected guide service along the Gulf coast. The Stansel, Kirk, Guy and Bobby brothers began their fishing and hunting races as teenagers here at Lake Calcasieu. Thirty-eight years later between fishermen and fishermen and hunters respected of the country and now possess and operate Hackberry Rod and Gun. The vast marshes that surround Hackberry and Lake Calcasieu are like an imperus for athletic birds that migrate on the central roads and Mississippi. The aquatic life that surround them provides world-class hunting and fishing for trout, red fish and thread washing. In 2005, Hackberry was destroyed by Hurricane Rita. However, in 10 months, with a lot of hard and sweat work, it was restored. Today, it is better and more strong than ever and home of gigantic trout, large red fish and a lot of medium to small fish fish. This week, we will take another look at fishing in Hackberry. Kirk Stensel, one of the owners of Hackberry Rod and Gun, a guide service on Lake Calcasieu, was my guide at Lake Calcasieu. Although the weather was extremely hot (less than 90 degrees with high humidity), I was well using my new low armor fishing and shorts. Under the heat of Armor's Heatgear Performance Poles bad humidity away from my body to keep me dry and provided ultraviolet protection of the intense rays of the sun. And, the Shorts had mesh ventilating for coldness, ortseun ortseun se sotix©A seroyam ortseun ed onU desnatS onrutcon etob ut ed emalb;Ah, jerk boat, which is 44-feet long and powered with twin, 115 hp Mercury four-stroke engines. This is the fourth year we've been doing night fishing, running from May through October. This trip is definitely a beat-the-heat fishing trip. The boat has a 1200 kW generator that powers five, 1500-watt lights that are as bright as those found on a football field. The boat goes out into Lake Calcasieu, anchors up on an oyster reef and turns on the lights that draw in baitfish, which attracts speckled trout and redbait. Question: What kinds of fish do you catch? Stansel: Our night boat catches speckled trout and redbait that will be from keeper size to 15- to 18-inches long, and occasionally, the fishermen will catch a big one. We mainly fish with live bait because at night fishing with live bait is easiest. Question: How is the trip conducted? Stansel: We serve dinner at Hackberry Rod and Gun at 7:00 pm. After dinner, the fishermen ride out to the reef in the boat. They fish all night and return to the dock at 4:00 am or 5:00 am. The boat is a houseboat, so they can sleep, if they get tired. The boat carries six people plus the captain and a deck hand. Most nights, all the fishermen catch their limits. Question: What does it cost for a night of night fishing? Stansel: We charge $1200 for up to six people, a price that includes dinner before you get on the boat and lodging until noon. You can bring your own rod, or we rent rods for $10 each per day. But you have to buy your own shrimp. Question: What do you charge for daytime fishing? Stansel: We have two ways of charging. For walk-ins, we charge $500 per day, Monday through Thursday, and $525 for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. That price includes up to three people fishing. Our package deal, which includes dinner, lodging, breakfast, lunch and drinks on the boat, is $350 per person with two or three people on the boat. We recommend a minimum of two people.
